Europe Opens Inquiry

By JAMES KANTER

BRUSSELS — The European Commission said on Monday that it was investigating whether airlines were using their alliances to block competition in the trans-Atlantic market.

"On the basis of what we have seen so far, there may be breaches of the antitrust rules because of the very extensive scope of these agreements," said Jonathan Todd, a spokesman for Europe's competition commissioner, Neelie Kroes.

The airlines had "failed to demonstrate that there are consumer benefits" to the agreements, Mr. Todd said.

Airlines that form alliances usually share certain operations in areas like routes and bookings. But regulators said that accords involving seven airlines that are members or prospective members of two groupings — Star Alli-
